Don't you just hate when you can't find a show you like on Netflix? Well, that's exactly how I felt with the TV show South Park. I don't know how many times I browsed around Netflix only to find out that I couldn't find that show with one of its many episodes listed on IMDb. Sometimes it just doesn't end up working out. And then I discovered Trim. Just like that, I was able to access IMDb and Rotten Tomatoes ratings directly on the preview page of any show, no matter where it was listed on Netflix's platform. It was meant to be this way but they had it all wrong. So now you can actually determine whether or not a certain show you're browsing around Netflix will be worth your time. The extension has additional features, but the main goal was to provide users with IMDb and Rotten Tomatoes' ratings on Netflix. Created by 2,000Apps, Trim is available now in the Chrome Web Store and, thanks to the Internet Archive, can be downloaded here as well. Ever wanted to be the boss of your very own castle? Now you can take a stab at it thanks to the Marry Him Up game, a match-3 puzzle game set in a beautiful castle complete with puzzle rooms and a will you-will-you theme. The gameplay has you tapping three units of the same color to eliminate them and make your way to the top where you'll finally be able to lay eyes on your desired match.
