labaransiÂ .Q: How to add fgets to my program? We were given a project, with the goal of doing this: Write a program that takes a string from the user, and prints them in a new line. For example: If the user enters cat, then it would print: cat, katt, ca, # CAT!! The command line arguments are also perfect. However, I have never taken a course where I had to input something like this: cat -k -k -k -k -k -k -k I don't know how I could implement fgets into my code. Do you have any suggestions on how I could implement fgets? #include #include char * inputString(); int main() { char * temp; printf("Enter a string: "); fgets(temp, 100, stdin); while (*temp!= ' '){ temp++; } printf("%s ", inputString()); return 0; } char * inputString(){ char temp[100]; printf("Enter a string: "); f
